Preface

Veinticinco años. Vingt-cinq ans. Venticinque anni. Whatever the language, a silver anniversary is an event worthy of note. On February 17, 1971, the first Linguistic Symposium on Romance Languages began at the University of Florida in Gainesville. The twenty-fifth symposium, LSRL XXV, will begin on March 2, 1995 at the University of Washington in Seattle. In planning this event, the organizing committee of LSRL XXV desired to commemorate the occasion in a manner which would not only exemplify twenty-five years of excellence in scholarship in Romance Linguistics, but which would also be useful in furthering research in the field. To these ends, we have complied this bibliography to demonstrate the extensive contribution of the symposia through the years, and, we hope, to facilitate the next twenty-five years of study until the spring of 2020 when the golden anniversary symposium, LSRL 50, begins.

I would like to thank all those who assisted in this project, with special thanks to José Carrasquel, Heles Contreras, Randall Gess, Julia Herschensohn, Jurgen Klausenburger, Cecile Kummerer, Anxton Olarrea, Margaret Salome, Judith Strozer, and Karen Zagona.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

MARCH 1995

As Governor I am pleased to welcome hosts and participants to the 25th annual meeting of the Linguistic Symposium on Romance Languages. We are honored to have you here and trust your conference will be successful and rewarding.

As we move into the electronic age, we cannot overstate the importance of language and speech. At a time when society seems caught up with extensive use of acronyms, cliches, catchy phrases and a general short-changing of the art of language, it is encouraging to know that there are those who study, work with and promote the nature and structure of speech.

If ever we have needed your skill and expertise, it is now. The ability to communicate is a primary need, and also a tool, and it is imperative that this element of civilization be promoted and maintained.

I wish you great success in this symposium and thank you for your continuing dedication to the study of language.

Sincerely,

Mike Lowry

Dear Friends:

As Mayor of Seattle, it gives me great pleasure to welcome the 25th annual meeting of the Linguistic Symposium on Romance Languages to our city.

Your prestigious gathering brings together some of the most talented language scholars in the world to exchange ideas and present findings from language research.

On behalf of the people of Seattle, I send a warm welcome and best wishes as you partake in a veritable feast of words and language.

Sincerely,

Norman B. Rice

Guide to the LSRL Bibliography

The following LSRL Bibliography is divided into five sections:

I. LSRL Proceedings Bibliography.

A bibliography listing chronologically volumes I - XXIII of the published proceedings of the Linguistic Symposia on Romance Languages.

II. Comprehensive Bibliography.

A comprehensive bibliography of all articles contained in volumes I - XXIII of the LSRL Proceedings. The form of the entries is as follows:

Author. Year. Title. Volume Number:Pages.

"Volume Number" refers to the volume of proceedings associated with each LSRL as listed in the LSRL Proceedings Bibliography.

III. Field Bibliography.

A comprehensive bibliography of all articles contained in volumes I - XXIII of the LSRL Proceedings divided by primary field of study discussed (Morphology, Phonology, Semantics, Syntax, Special Topics).

IV. Tentative Bibliography of the Proceedings of LSRL XXIV.

A bibliography of the papers which are expected to appear in the proceedings of LSRL XXIV (to be published by Georgetown University Press).

V. Papers to be Presented at LSRL XXV.

A tentative listing of the papers scheduled to be presented at LSRL XXV.

While every effort has been made to appropriately classify each article, mistakes may have been made. We apologize for any such errors, and would appreciate being notified of any that remain so that the inaccuracies may be corrected in the data base.
